Latest Revision: February 6, 2025

Article 1 Students wishing to defend their master's thesis must submit their thesis topic to the Dean of the Graduate School of Global Arts, making sure to adhere to the following fixed dates (the previous day in cases where the fixed date falls on a weekend or holiday). Furthermore, degree review application submissions will be recognized even in cases where the submission timing takes place while the student is midway through a temporary leave of absence.

- 1) For students wishing to acquire their degree by the end of March, the date will be October 31 of the same academic year.
- 2) For students wishing to acquire their degree by the end of September, the date will be April 30 of the same academic year.

Article 2 The student will select one of the two following formats for their master's thesis submission.

- 1) Master's thesis only
- 2) Master's thesis + subject-specific research report

2-2 The master's thesis and subject-specific research report mentioned in the previous paragraph (hereinafter referred to as "Thesis+") must be submitted to the Dean of the Graduate School of Global Arts within the time period designated by said department.

If the Thesis+ is submitted after the designated time period has passed, the review will not be conducted within the same academic year.

Article 3 The Thesis+ may be written in either Japanese or English.

3-2 The length criteria for the master's thesis is approximately 40,000 ~ 80,000 characters for Japanese and approximately 20,000 ~ 40,000 words for English. However, in a case where the format in Item 2 of Paragraph 1 of Article 2 has been selected, this length may be altered depending on the specific research content, with this alteration being determined by the student's academic advisor.

Article 4 The subject-specific research report will contain the implementation of a symposium plan, information transmissions via online platforms, publications, art projects, concerts, exhibitions, etc. In addition, a report regarding this plan will be drafted and submitted.

Article 5 The final examination will be focused on the content of the Thesis+, and will be conducted orally.

Article 6 The Thesis+ review schedule and/or final examination schedule will be determined via a Graduate School of Global Arts Faculty Council.

Article 7 The Thesis+ review will be as per Tokyo University of the Arts degree regulations.

The Thesis+ submission deadline will be strictly observed.

Separate Study Subject			Refer to the study plan and timetable for the appropriate research department

Note : 1. Be aware that not all class subjects are offered each year. Be sure to check the timetable each year to confirm which classes are offered.

2. Under “Semester,” subjects marked “Y” are year-long, subjects marked “1” are held in the first semester, and subjects marked “2” are held in the second semester.

7. Credits and Grades

(1) Credits

The standard with regards to credits for class subjects in this program is 45 hours of study for each credit. Credits shall be calculated using the following guideline in line with the style of the class, giving consideration to the educational effect and required study outside of class hours.

Required class hours per credit

Lecture	15 hours
Seminar	15 hours
Lab	30 hours

(2) Grades

Grades for each class subject in this school shall be represented by an evaluation of 秀 (Exemplary), 優 (Very Good), 良 (Good), 可 (Pass) or 不可 (Fail); a grade of Pass or higher is sufficient to pass.

To receive the stipulated numbers of credits for a class, a student must be in attendance for at least 2/3 of the total class sessions and pass an examination (at the end of the semester or academic year).

- Grading standard -

Exemplary	Very Good	Good	Pass	Fail
100 - 95	94 - 80	79 - 60	59 - 50	49 or less
As	A	B	C	D

* The grading for theses shall follow the same standard, with a grade of Pass or higher being sufficient to pass.

Grades are announced at the end of each semester, so students should check on CampusPlan, to the side of the automatic door at the main entrance to the Senju Campus or by using the certificate dispenser in the Student Affairs Office on the Ueno Campus.

Graduates shall be provided with a transcript of their grades along with their diploma at the graduation ceremony (March 25 each year).

(3) Full-year Course Credit Partition System

(May 11, 2017 - Faculty Council Decision)

(September 26, 2018 - Faculty Council Revision)

Limited to cases that fulfill the following conditions: when the concerned student is in the middle of a temporary leave of absence taken in the middle of the academic year, as a special case, half-term credits (half of the original number of credits) will be recognized; even for full-year courses.

[1] Cases where credit partition will be recognized:

- a) When the corresponding student is enrolled in a program at a university or graduate university, or a program at another institution recognized to correspond to either of these, via a formal school system in an overseas country.
- b. Cases with a temporary absence due to child-rearing, nursing care, or spousal accompaniment (with the target students here being those to whom various staff leave regulations apply.)
- c. Other cases that the Dean has accepted as valid, educationally-speaking.

[2] Time periods for commencement of and return from a temporary leave of absence:

The time period in which the amount of attendance required for a half-term course can be fully met.

[3] When a performance evaluation equivalent to passing the previous term has been obtained from the teaching staff in charge of the relevant course.

[4] Documents required when submitting a temporary absence application:

- a. In cases corresponding to [1] a: Certificate issued by accepting institution. Documentation that clearly states the study abroad term, qualifications, etc.
- b. Full-year course credit partition application accompanying temporary absence.

[5] Documents required when submitting application for return from a leave of absence:

- a. In cases corresponding to [1] a: Material proving enrollment in corresponding educational institution: Certificate of student status, academic transcript, student ID card, student record, course registration slip (materials with academic advisor attendance signature), etc. Depending on the case at hand, course tuition payment evidence may also be acceptable. It is not necessary to have obtained a degree, or to have acquired qualifications as having graduated or completed the course).
- Original documents will be returned after a copy is made by the registrar.
- b. Full-year course credit partition application accompanying return from a leave of absence.

[6] Points of note after returning from a leave of absence:

In instances where the above-mentioned course is one required for degree completion, a half-term of the same course must be taken during the following term. In cases where said course has not been established, however, a half-term of a course corresponding to this must instead be taken.

*Applications are to be conducted through the registrar

○ Regarding curator qualifications

Curators are positioned in museums, art galleries, etc., as individuals who conduct specialist professional duties relating to material collection, examination, research, safekeeping, exhibition, educational and popularization activities, etc., based on the Museum Law.

In order to obtain the qualifications to become a curator, a student must hold a Bachelor's degree, and must acquire museology-related credits as stipulated in the Ordinance for Enforcement of the Museum Law.

At Tokyo University of the Arts, courses are offered for curator qualification acquisition as per the content of the table above. Having carefully read through the syllabus and gained a thorough understanding of its content, students wishing to obtain curator qualifications will systematically take courses from their first year on, giving consideration to the matter of compatibility with their individual master's degree areas of study.

Furthermore, in recent years it was found that curator employment examinations are extremely difficult to pass. To acquire these qualifications, students need to be proactive in their education, in order to deepen their knowledge, capabilities, and experience in individual specialist fields.

○ Program Table

1. Each of the required courses shown on the table must be taken by the student.
2. It would be preferable to undergo art museum practical training first after having obtained the eight required course credits. Registration will also be possible for students who expect to acquire all of the said credits within the same academic year as the art museum practical training in question.
3. Museum Management Theory and Art Museum Practical Training will each be carried out via intensive courses. (It would be preferable to take Museum Management Theory during the first year.)
4. Students will acquire eight or more credits via elective courses established by Tokyo University of the Arts.
5. Other museology program (curator qualifications) courses are not included in the credits required for the completion of the Graduate School of Global Arts.
6. Students who possess a university degree and have acquired the prescribed credits will be presented with curator qualification credentials. (Students are asked to please bear in mind that these curator qualification credentials will not be issued without an application to do so. (The application acceptance procedure will be conducted in December of the year of completion. Notifications regarding the process, etc., will be made via bulletin.))
7. As the Museology Curator Program places  heavy importance on working with fine arts museums and art museum content, as well as other fine arts materials, only a limited number of the required courses taken at another university will be acknowledged by Tokyo University of the Arts (See below).
8. Students are responsible as your own for checking "Museology Program (Curator Qualifications)" and taking the courses they required to complete in order to obtain qualifications.

- Museology program (curator qualification) courses taken at other universities, etc.
Students who have taken museology program courses at another university, and have then entered into the graduate program at Tokyo University of the Arts with the wish to acquire curator qualifications, will receive credit for the following courses only:

• Declarable Courses: (Please refer to the Museology Curator Program Table)
Lifelong Learning Theory, Introduction to Museums, Museum Management Theory, Museum Information & Media Theory, Museum Education Theory

(Such cases will not lead to acknowledgement and certification per se, but in terms of registering for courses or applying for curator qualification conferment, if proof is verified that the student in question has acquired credits at their home university, they will not need to repeat the same course at Tokyo University of the Arts. As shown in the remarks section at the bottom of the Program Table, students from other universities who wish to obtain curator qualifications from Tokyo University of the Arts must take all of the eight elective course credits at this university.)

9. Student Life

If the faculty office at the Ueno Campus is closed during the above-listed open hours and a student wishes to use the graduate student office, he or she is to show his or her Student ID at the security station and borrow a key to the office.

If a student wishes to use the facilities or associated library of another school or department, he or she shall follow the stipulations of that school or department.

○ Campus broadcast

Information shall be conveyed via campus broadcast in the case of emergency such as fire or disaster, or when information must be conveyed to many students simultaneously.

○ Contact via telephone

- Telephone calls from third parties will not be forwarded to students, with the exception of during emergency situations.

- The university shall not respond to requests from third parties to provide the addresses, telephone numbers, or other personal information of students.

- Commuter Pass
- Students shall purchase commuter passes at the station office, after submitting their Student ID, commuter pass issuance receipt and an application form which is available at each station.
 - Should a student wish to change their commuting route due to change of address, he or she shall conduct the appropriate procedures at the Center.

(6) Certificates

The following certificates are issued by the certificate dispenser. Dispensers are located in the Student Affairs Office in the Ueno Campus and to the side of the automatic door at the main entrance of the Senju Campus. Available times and issuable certificates can be checked on the website.

- Student discount (Student fare discount certificate)
- Student discount certificates can be issued by the certificate dispenser.
 - Students are to be aware that the student discount program is intended to lessen the economic burden on students and contribute to the promotion of education, and not as a free right possessed by individual students.
 - A student may use up to 10 certificates in a single year, and certificates are valid for three months from issuance. However, certificates issued on January 1 or later shall be valid until March 31.
 - Students shall carry their Student ID with them when they use a student discount.
 - Fraudulent use of student discounts will not only lead to punishment of the individual student, but may also lead to the forbidding of their use by all students of the university, so students are to be sure to only use student discounts for their intended purpose.

For certificates which cannot be issued by the certificate dispenser, students are to fill out the required items in an application for the issuance of a certificate, and apply to the Center. Issuance of certificates in Japanese requires around three days, while issuance of certificates in English requires around one week. Students shall contact the center in advance regarding certificates which require consultation.

The times and procedures for issuing certificates cannot be altered to meet individual students' needs (late in conducting procedures, urgent need, etc.), so students are to be sure to conduct the required procedures well in advance and submit forms by their deadlines.
